Meet Your Host – Emily Moss

How long have you been an announcer at WCPE, and what attracted you to The Classical Station? I have been announcing since May 2022. I wanted to work at The Classical Station because I have always been fascinated by the lives of composers. I found the virtual art gallery featured on the website and was moved by the sense of community the station has with its listeners.

What is your favorite genre of music? Who are some of your favorite composers and artists? I love the Romantic Era of classical music—I love the emotional depth and bombastic volatility of Rachmaninoff and Tchaikovsky. My favorite modern composer is Yann Tiersen.

Do you have a background in music performance? I studied piano performance and sang alto in my university’s competitive choir. Our choir toured England performing Benjamin Britten’s 5 Flower Songs and sang in Westminster Abbey. Being a solo pianist all my life, my experience of music was transcended when I joined forces with other musicians.

Have you seen any performances around the world that stand out in your memory? I saw Itzhak Perlman perform Max Bruch’s Violin Concerto no. 1 and I was never the same. His earnest humanity and kindness shone through in his playing.

Is there anything else your listeners might enjoy knowing about you? I create my own art using rope in a style called macrame. I am inspired by nature, music, and divinity. My art can be seen at landofluna.org.
Home, Sweet Home

I want to thank you for supporting WCPE Radio (theclassicalstation.org). Without your generous gifts, we would not be able to continue our round-the-clock broadcasts. This is especially true for our online listeners and those who listen to our mini-transmitters.

December is a special month for many people. Christmas and Chanukah are coming up, symbolizing recognition and giving gifts to family members and close friends. I hope you will consider WCPE Radio to be a part of your family and ask that you remember our station in December.

This year is like any year—our expenses go up just as yours do, and we have to meet these expenses. We share our programming without cost or obligation to many cable and public radio stations across the country. You can listen for free on the App, on Alexa, and on the website. We believe that Great Classical Music is a treasure and gift which is important to preserve and protect.

This station is unique; we do not have a university, municipality, or government agency to fall back upon during difficult times. We have to depend on you. We are truly a community radio station, because members of each community we serve take the time and effort to help us financially, like local business owners who believe this station is important and worthy of their support.

We are blessed to be able to operate with a 100,000-watt transmitter, which is the highest broadcast power allowed in the United States for an FM station. We also have mini-transmitters in cities where our signal weakens after 75 or 90 miles, we have partner stations rebroadcasting our music, and we have many listeners across the country via TheClassicalStation.org. There is no other radio station in the country that operates a high-power station that has been fortunate enough to have had a quarter-mile–tall tower donated to it. We have many broadcast options that bring you Great Classical Music around the clock, every day of the year.

Many people wait until December to make their donations to non-profit organizations that they support. So I ask you to consider a December gift to WCPE Radio wherever you are—whether listening in central North Carolina and Southside Virginia on the radio, online at TheClassicalStation.org, on our App, or on one of our many Partner Stations around the country.

You can donate gifts of stock or make a Qualified Charitable Distribution from your IRA. Your tax deductible charitable gifts can help you this coming April. The same goes for that old car or truck that you never use anymore. Wherever you live in the U.S., we can have someone pick it up for donation, and you’ll get a donation verification in return for your generosity. For more information on how to give, please visit TheClassicalStation.org.

Thank you for supporting this beautiful music and the stations and the people who bring it to you. From all of us here at WCPE Radio, we’ll do our best to bring you Great Classical Music throughout the coming year, and it will all be because you took the time to give us your financial support!

Thank you!

Deborah Proctor
General Manager
December 8th Jean Sibelius
10 a.m. Symphony no. 5 in E-flat, op. 82
In Sibelius’s own words: "It is as if God Almighty had thrown down pieces of a mosaic from heaven’s floor and asked me to find out what was the original pattern." The Fifth symphony’s final movement has sustained an enormous amount of scholarly analysis. Most listeners instinctively grasp that its power is found in Sibelius’ use of soaring melodies and grand horn motifs, and the six memorable, suspenseful chords that end it.

December 10th Kathryn Stott
7 a.m. Londonderry Air (arr. Fritz Kreisler)
12 p.m. Kabalevsky: Second Concerto in G Minor for Piano and Orchestra
British pianist Kathryn Stott is a brilliant performer as well as a renowned accompanist. Her partnerships with Yo-Yo Ma, Christian Poltera, and Nigel Kennedy have resulted in many successful concert series and recordings. Listen for her duet with cellist Yo-Yo Ma and her performance of Kabalevsky’s Piano Concerto no. 2.

December 11th Hector Berlioz
2 p.m. Symphonie Fantastique
Berlioz sketched out his musical ideas on the guitar; his works puzzled his teachers, and his compatriot Debussy called him "a monster…not a musician at all." Time has canonized Berlioz as one of the greatest composers of all time, yet the unique nature of his music continues to confound. The Symphonie Fantastique, with its unusual harmonies, odd textures, and rule-breaking form, demonstrates all that is best loved about his music.

December 13th Ludwig Van Beethoven
7 p.m. Symphony no. 3 in E-flat, op. 55 (Eroica)
Symphony no. 3, nicknamed “Eroica”, was originally dedicated to Napoleon Bonaparte, but its cultural influence would outlast the Emperor. By daring to use music as a vehicle for such striking emotional expression, and by embodying the principle of the individual above all, Beethoven emancipated the artist and gave birth to the Romantic Era.

December 17th Arthur Fiedler
7 a.m. Camille Saint-Saëns: Danse Macabre op. 40
Arthur Fiedler was an orchestral musician before he became the famed conductor of the Boston Pops. Throughout his 50 years as music director, Fiedler recorded more albums than any other orchestra and introduced classical music to countless Americans. Fiedler’s legacy endures today with the thriving Boston Pops.

Listen to Great Classical Music 24/7 by streaming at TheClassicalStation.org!
December 31st Jennifer Higdon
9 a.m. Concerto 4-3

Higdon transported her audience to the metropolis with her composition City Scape. In contrast, her new work Concerto 4-3 uses music to evoke the rural settings of her native Tennessee. The group Time For Three, for whom the work was written, serves as the soloist and are supported by a full orchestra and chorus. Concerto 4-3 is undoubtedly an exciting, propellant piece, but tucked away in its quiet moments is a sense of gentle nostalgia and contentment found in the settings that inspired it.

January 6th Max Bruch
9 a.m. Violin Concerto no. 1 in G Minor, op. 26

Violin soloist Ray Chen deftly manages the demands of Max Bruch’s Violin Concerto in the London Symphony Orchestra’s recording of Bruch’s most famous work. Soaring lyricism, aggressive double-stops, and virtuosic cadenzas are balanced by orchestral writing equally gentle and grand. Though Bruch became tired of its popularity, audiences the world over are still receptive to its power and charm.

January 15th Peter Tchaikovsky
2 p.m.: Symphony no. 6 in B Minor, op. 74 (Pathetique)

Tchaikovsky died shortly after the premiere of the Sixth Symphony, which is among the greatest of symphonic works. Some writers seized upon his timing and labeled the “Pathetique” his swan song. Whatever the composer’s intent, the result was a work brimming with life and energy. The first movement, which grows from meditative chords to bright lyrical outbursts before returning again, parallels the journey from birth to death.

January 19th Sir Simon Rattle
10 a.m. Beethoven: Piano Concerto no. 2 in B-flat, op. 19

Sir Simon Rattle emerged as someone to watch at age 25 when he was appointed principal conductor of the City of Birmingham Symphony Orchestra in 1980. Through his roles at the Berlin Philharmonic and the London Symphony Orchestra, he became a champion of 20th-century composers.

January 25th Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart
7 p.m. Symphony 40 in G Minor K. 550

Many of Mozart’s works have become so ubiquitous that they barely register as music written by a living, breathing person. The first few bars of the 40th Symphony feature a melody so sublime and recognizable, existing so naturally, that it becomes difficult to remember when and where one first heard it.
January 31st Ofra Harnoy
11 a.m. Corelli: Cello Sonata in D Minor, op. 5, no. 8

Canadian cellist Ofra Harnoy premiered many concerti during her career, including both Offenbach’s and Viotti’s cello concertos. She is known for her numerous recordings and extensive touring. Read our interview with Ms. Harnoy on our website under ‘Conversations.’

February 2nd Paul O’Dette
9 a.m. Milano: Three Fantasias for Lute

Originally a guitarist in a rock band, Paul O’Dette became intrigued by the lute and now specializes in performing Early Music. He is actively involved in historically informed performance, which finds its inspiration in original instruments and sources. Mr. O’Dette is Professor of Lute at the Eastman School of Music.

February 3rd Felix Mendelssohn
9 a.m. Violin Concerto in E Minor op. 64

Mendelssohn’s great violin concerto begins with such assurance and force that the 1st movement seems to drop us in medias res. What follows is a brilliant blend of soloist and orchestra, racing to a solo cadenza. Delicately, violinist Itzhak Perlman builds toward the rapid arpeggio which signals the return of the orchestra and the main theme.

February 21st Andrés Segovia
9 a.m. Bach: Minuet I and II from Cello Suite no. 1 in G, BWV 1007

Spanish guitarist Andrés Segovia was a brilliant performer and a proponent of the guitar as a serious classical instrument that deserved a place in the conservatoire. Now, most collegiate music programs include a guitar program, and guitar works are a regular part of classical performances everywhere. In one way or another, anyone who plays or enjoys classical guitar today owes Segovia a debt of gratitude.

February 27th JoAnn Falletta
11 a.m. Paine: Poseidon and Amphitrite, op. 44 (An Ocean Fantasy)

JoAnn Falletta is best known as the first female Music Director of the Buffalo Philharmonic. She is also a GRAMMY Award-winning recording artist, most recently winning the 2021 Award for Best Choral Performance. Notably, she ‘discovered’ the lost compositions of Austrian composer Marcel Tyberg. Find our interview with Ms. Falletta on our website under ‘Conversations’.
December 10th
Metropolitan Opera
The Classical Station’s broadcast of the Metropolitan Opera’s 2022–23 season opens with a presentation of Kevin Puts’ The Hours. Enjoy the Met each Saturday afternoon at 1:00 p.m. from the comfort of your own home, online, on the radio, or on The Classical Station’s app.

December 12th-16th
Celebration: Ludwig van Beethoven
Ludwig van Beethoven remains the world’s most widely celebrated composer. The Classical Station celebrates Beethoven with five days of selections. A set of pieces each morning will chronicle his journey from classical master to titan of individual expression. Each night, enjoy one of five symphonies, culminating with the Ninth—perhaps the greatest achievement in the history of music.

December 18th
Chanukah
Come spin the dreidel, light the candles, and enjoy the music of Chanukah at 6:00 p.m. eastern on December 18. Sacred and folk music will also be featured during the eight-day Jewish Festival of Lights through December 26.

December 21st
Winter’s Grip
Few popular classical composers were familiar with the comfort of climate control and electrical lighting. On the shortest day of the year, spend some time enjoying a selection of pieces - by Tchaikovsky, Vivaldi, Grieg, and others - that remind us of both the beauty and hardship of the winter months.

December 25th
Christmas
Please join us as we anticipate and celebrate Christmas at The Classical Station. Special programs will include Lullabies and Carols selected by the host of Great Sacred Music, Rob Kennedy, as well as a holiday edition of Renaissance Fare by host George Douglas. Don’t miss your opportunity to choose your favorite Christmas music with our Christmas Eve Special Request Program. Enjoy Christmas morning with beautiful selections on Great Sacred Music.

December 31st
New Year’s Eve (Saturday Evening Request)
Ring in New Year’s Eve with your favorite piece of classical music. Submit your request for the special edition of the Saturday Evening Request Program as we countdown together with Great Classical Music!

January 1st
Hope and Joy
Making resolutions, moving forward from past troubles, and focusing on life’s great joys are New Year’s Day traditions. Rob Kennedy will offer works of hope and joy throughout Great Sacred Music, followed by an afternoon of jubilation during Weekend Classics. Finally, a special edition of Preview! will look back on the best music of the past year, with an eye on the next.

January 14th-15th
Exploring Eastern Europe
Political events have dramatically changed the lives of people in Eastern Europe and the former U.S.S.R. The one constant has been the undying beauty of the music written by Eastern European composers. The Classical Station will feature music from Chopin, Liszt, Mussorgsky, Tchaikovsky, Lysenko, and many others this weekend.

January 23rd–27th
Celebration: Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart
Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart composed more than 600 pieces and dozens of eternal masterpieces in only 35 years: representing his contribution to classical music with only a few of those selections is a daunting task. Our celebration will span his vast repertoire: concertos, symphonies, chamber works, and piano pieces.

February 1st
Black History Month
Recent scholarship brought into focus the contributions—often underappreciated in their time—of black composers and performers. Through the month, featured pieces will shed light on the work of George Walker, Scott Joplin, William Grant Still, Chevalier de Saint-Georges, Florence Price, and others.

February 14th
Valentine’s Day
Music and romance are so intertwined that it is difficult to imagine one existing without the other. Celebrate romance with a dedication to your partner, or let your crush know how much you have in common, all with Great Classical Music.

February 21st
Presidents’ Day
Enjoy a mid-week respite as you celebrate this national holiday. The Classical Station delivers relaxing music focused on American composers on Presidents’ Day.

Request Hours
For up to twelve hours each Friday and six hours every Saturday, The Classical Station invites our listeners to join the music department! Dedicate a favorite composition to someone across town—or across the globe. Call or visit our website early in the week to reserve your place in The Classical Station’s program.

Consider making the gift that will become your Legacy. For information about how to include WCPE in your estate planning, please contact Dan McHugh at dan@theclassicalstation.org
Conversations on My Life in Music delve into classical musicians’ careers and explore lives filled with music. This quarter, My Life in Music features composers Samuel Adler and Amanda Lee Falkenberg. Our retrospective January edition will highlight some of our most popular interviews over the past five years. My Life in Music airs on the first Monday of each month at 7 p.m. and the following Sunday at 5 p.m.

This December’s Renaissance Fare will visit several European countries to experience the sounds of Christmas during the 15th and 16th centuries. Many beautiful holiday tunes and hymns were written during the Renaissance period. Don’t miss our Christmas edition on Monday, December 12, at 7:00 p.m., with a repeat broadcast on Sunday, December 18, at 5:00 p.m!

What did people listen to on New Year’s Day 500 years ago? Celebrating the beginning of the New Year has been an important tradition even before the existence of the Julian calendar. Dancing and partying required... music! Join us for our New Year’s edition of Renaissance Fare on Monday, January 9, at 7:00 p.m. with a repeat broadcast on Sunday, January 15, at 5:00 p.m.

In February we’ll give a “French Toast to Love!” We’ll listen to the most popular chansons (or love songs) from Paris and other romantic cities. The program premieres on the eve of Valentine’s Day, Monday, February 13, at 7:00 p.m. with a repeat broadcast on Sunday, February 19, at 5:00 p.m.

Listen to Renaissance Fare on the second Monday of each month on The Classical Station with a repeat broadcast on the following Sunday.
January 12  Saint-Saëns  Henry VIII
Henry VIII’s (Rouillon) divorce from Catherine of Aragon (Command) and mar-riage to Anne Boleyn (Vignon) leads to a tragic end. Camille Saint-Saëns’ lush orchestra-tion abounds in this 1895 work.

January 19  Wagner’s Lohengrin
When a mysterious knight (Thomas) comes to save Elsa (Grümmer), she must not ask him his name or where he is from. Wagner’s masterpiece will captivate you! (Archival broadcast by the late Al Ruocchio)

January 26  Gilbert & Sullivan’s
HMS Pinafore & The Gondoliers
A wonderful double bill—you’re in for a fun-filled evening! The lyrical melodies and patter songs of Sullivan married to W.S. Gilbert’s humorous lyrics make for a delightful listening experience.

February 2  Joplin’s  Treemonisha
This 1911 opera by American composer Scott Joplin celebrates African-American music and is filled with spirituals and blues. We will also celebrate the achievements of American singers like Leontyne Price, Shirley Verrett, and others.

February 9  Bernstein’s  Trouble in Tahiti/A Quiet Place
The dramatic action in Trouble in Tahiti revolves around Sam (Patrick) and Dinah (Williams), a husband and wife who have become tired of their mundane life. Their story continues in A Quiet Place.

February 16  Barber’s  Vanessa
Vanessa (Steber) has waited for decades in a mirrorless home for her lover Anatole (Gedda) to return. There is a knock at the door...has Anatole returned?

February 23  Still’s  Troubled Island
Still’s 1949 Troubled Island was the first grand opera composed by an African American and produced by a major opera company. The story portrays Jean Jacques Dessalines (Weede), leader of the Haitian revolution.

Beethoven for Three

By Emanuel Ax, Leonidas Kavakos & Yo-Yo Ma

A review by Bethany Tillerson

Beethoven for Three features cellist Yo-Yo Ma, violinist Leonidas Kavakos, and pianist Emanuel Ax, performing arrangements of two of Beethoven’s symphonies. This album brings the listener a fresh way to experience Beethoven’s symphonies.

Ma, Kavakos, and Ax—all virtuoso soloists—collaborate for a seamlessly balanced concert performance. The emotional qualities of the symphonies are immense, from the adventure of the Second Symphony, written when Beethoven realized he was going deaf, to the defiant triumph of the Fifth. This is an album for those familiar with Beethoven’s symphonies who want to hear them in a new light.

This arrangement of the Second Symphony by Beethoven’s pupil, Ferdinand Reis, closely resembles Beethoven’s piano trios of the same period. The Fifth Symphony is arranged by Colin Matthews in a new commission. Both works seamlessly distribute the instrumentation, blending melody and more supportive harmonic lines, only to be taken up a few bars later by another performer. Hidden voices are revealed in new and exciting ways.

Beethoven’s symphonies are transformed into something new here, with an emphasis on intimacy and relatability evident throughout the arrangements. Beethoven For Three is available as a thank-you gift for donations of $120 or more to WCPE, The Classical Station.

Symphonies for the Soul: Classical Music to Cure Any Ailment

By Oliver Condy

Published by Cassell 2021

A review by Greysolynne Hyman

Whether you’re new to classical music or you’ve been listening for many pleasurable years, this book is an entertaining engagement with the emotional aspects of art. We are all aware that certain pieces of music elicit a particular mood—Tchaikovsky’s Symphony no. 6 immediately springs to mind. Its nickname, “Pathetique”, is well-deserved.

Oliver Condy masterfully explains how the musical structure of a composition evokes an emotional response. In J.S. Bach’s Prelude and Fugue in D Minor from Book I of The Well-Tempered Clavier, Condy points out that the “simple bass of bouncing quavers (eighth notes) forms the foundation underneath a babbling brook of semi-quavers (sixteenth notes)” that beautifully complement the fugue and evoke a sense of “delight” (pg. 98). This quotation is also an example of Condy’s vivid descriptions of music.

The circumstances of a composer’s life and consequent mood affect their work. For example, Franz Schubert penned his String Quartet no. 14 (“Death and the Maiden”) while gripped by despair and pain, suffering from an incurable disease.

Oliver Condy also recommends antidotes for unwanted emotional states: e.g., listening to George Gershwin’s optimistic Rhapsody in Blue to combat pessimism. For each mood or emotion, Mr. Condy has at least one suggestion of a specific performance. Less familiar composers’ works are also included. Henry Litolf’s Scherzo from his Concerto Symphonique appears under the heading “Joy”. The time frame for classical music and its effects on the soul extend into the twenty-first century. Stephan Moccio’s Tales of Solace, composed in 2020, is found under “Isolation”.

One of the most appealing features of this book is Mr. Condy’s emphasis on the humanity of musicians, expressed in anecdotes about their experiences. Felix Mendelssohn’s seasickness on a voyage during a tour of Europe is portrayed in the rapid crescendos and diminuendos of The Hebrides Overture. Ralph Vaughan Williams’ passion for hiking through the English countryside is reflected in his Norfolk Rhapsodies and The Lark Ascending.

The charm of this book lies not only in its well-researched subject matter but also in its style of presentation—warm, witty, and easily accessible; therefore, this review concludes in the optimistic key of D Major.

Symphonies for the Soul is available in hardcover and eBook formats.

DONOR SPOTLIGHT

I’m an Army brat and moved every few years until middle school, when we settled on Chicago’s North Shore in the early 1960s. There, I found WFMT and my love of classical music was born. When my wife Carol and I moved to Chapel Hill, NC, in 1986, we quickly discovered WCPE, and it has been our musical home ever since. We immediately became donors, and sustaining members shortly thereafter.

At home, all we need to do is fix our radio on 89.7 FM. The Classical Station has been my constant companion in the car. Thanks to its multiple streaming formats, back in the pre-pandemic days when we physically traveled for work and meetings, I could continue to listen wherever I was on planet Earth. As the news cycle becomes ever more frenetic and the stories more repetitive and dystopian, WCPE provides us a respite of peace and beauty which we sorely need. Long may she prosper and broadcast.

What You’re Saying

I found WCPE on the radio 10 years ago; I’ve been listening on the Web all over the country since then. It’s on when I wake up until I go to bed. I’ve learned a lot—keep teaching about music! Thank you! (Dallas in Lewisville, TX)

I wanted to say how much I enjoy listening in my car. I live in Williamsport, PA. The music is always calming and delightful, and keeps me centered and not bothered by the world outside. Thanks for being there for me! (LeeAnn in Pennsylvania)

I listened to WQXR in NY for years when I lived on Long Island. We retired to NC and I found this channel. As North Carolina is my home, WCPE is now my home classical music station! (Eileen in Durham, NC)

I bought a satellite radio when we moved from Durham to Wilmington just so we could keep listening to WCPE. We love it! (Barbara in Wilmington, NC)
